Description:

Person who:

- cultivating crops and using plant protection products of registration class 2 and/or
- Management of agricultural land in particularly sensitive areas and/or
- has registered in the Register for Integrated Growing of Agricultural Products.

In controlling compliance with the requirements of regulatory enactments, different State institutions shall require farmers to produce different types of information regarding the managed fields.

The rural history data entry site of the State Plant Protection Service is intended to enable the farmer to provide this information electronically, thereby reducing the duration of the checks carried out by the controlling authorities and saving his or her time. On the field history data entry site, you can enter basic information (field number, area, period) for each managed field by adding document files related to that field (for example, field history, fertilizer plan, prints from the tractor machine, etc.).
